

Mandala School Newsletter

Volume XI

November 16, 2018

Issue X

The youngest art class painted beautiful ears of corn this week in preparation for Thanksgiving.

Charlotte working on the number line, addition, and subtraction!

Right: Kyle uses his free time to study the South American map.

Above: Luci (and all the older students) presented about biomes this week. Luci built a model of Alpine biome & the students gave wonderful presentations on the different biomes! Left: younger students wrapped up their unit on the desert. They recalled facts and wrote what they learned down!

Lewis & Clark Expedition Journal Entries

July 4, 1803

We are boarding the ship. The rowing men are getting in their seats to row. We are setting off now. The water is moving like running buffalo and the wind is screaming as we row along. We have tested our food and the result is: we can eat it. We just hit a sand bar and the oxen are pulling us free. Now we are feeding the oxen as a thank you. It is getting late and now I must stop. Entry out.

-Jackson M.

The forest was a dark place and the river was full of fish and the forest was full of deer. It was fun, I felt happy. We're eating fish and it was good. We were fishing, I like it. We were on a boat and I was happy.

-Jackson G.

Tracy (Ted's mom) came into morning meeting this week for a mediation and centering session with the students. It was great! Thanks, Tracy

The snow is here to stay! ❄️

In order to go outside for recess students will need ALL of the appropriate snow gear to stay warm and dry: boots, snow-pants, a winter coat, gloves/mittens, and a hat. A scarf or neck warmer is optional. If they would like to keep them at school that is great!
PLEASE WRITE HIS/HER NAME ON CLOTHING & GEAR!

Student of the Week: Marty

Marty is a vet at Mandala, he is 9 years old. He has a dog named Frank. When he grows up Marty wants to be a video game maker. If Marty had a super power he would want to be able to change reality. His favorite food is rice and salmon. His favorite country is France. His favorite toys are action figures. His favorite video game is GTA 5. Marty likes math and drawing. His favorite animals are llamas.