

Mandala School Newsletter

Volume: 11 - Issue: XXIV
April 12, 2019

Top right: Jackson & his mom outside Notre Dame in Paris
left: Jackson's favorite meal, escargot!
bottom right: Jackson inside the Panthéon in Paris

This week's student of the week is Jackson M. He is ten years, ten months, and twenty-four days old. He is a vet at the Mandala School. This is his second year at Mandala. In his family he has a dad, mom, and two brothers, Kyle and Ben. Jackson has five pets; two dogs, a ferret, and two cats. His role model is Zorro because he fights for people. If Jackson had one wish it would be for a better world. He wants peace and better people in the government. He would also wish to summon anything on command. Jackson's dream job would be a geneticist. His favorite food is French escargot, which is snails! He loves the movie Jurassic World and the book The Mark of Zorro. He has been to France and it is now his favorite country. When he is at home he likes to play with Transformer toys and Mortal Kombat 3. At school, Jackson enjoys science. His favorite character is Bigfoot. Jackson knows a lot about dinosaurs. He really likes the Zuul Crevistator. As you can see, Jackson is a very interesting student!

by Kate

On Thursday we went to the Albright Knox Art Gallery. It was tons of fun, my favorite thing we saw was made of pots and pans from poor people in India. They took the pots and pans and made a big pile and put running water in it. My second favorite was the Dragoon. It was painted by Edouard Detaille.

by Marty

Dr. John taught us how to make mozzarella cheese on Friday. With a few simple ingredients and a precise method we turned a gallon of whole milk into a delicious caprese salad for our community lunch.

