The younger and middle group of students have started learning about insects! This week they presented their projects on an insect they chose to learn about. Above is Sia's project on butterflies and Graham's diagram of a bee. They are reading Insect Invaders with Ms. Kelsey and learning new vocabulary words (right).

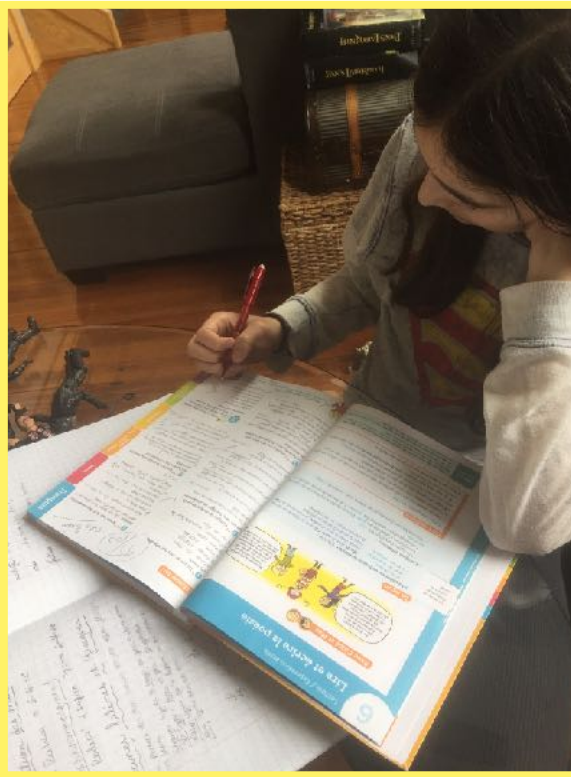

The wind whipping past me,
Carrying the beautiful scent of flowers
~In the air
The dry leaves from winter twirling
~over the sun-filled dirt
Birds chirping on swaying branches
Over the lush fields of green

Ama's drawing from art class this week, students remembered Dusty.

Students still have the opportunity to study foreign language during school from home. They have at least one private session and one group session each week!

what we do when we're not in class

Dr. John matted a French picture that he got when we took our school trip there (two years ago, this week)! He also put together a moss terrarium.

Ms. Kelsey made homemade bagels, yum! It was a long process. It was not hard, it just took time!

Many of us planted seeds for our gardens. You can see Omunique's have begun to sprout (right). Ms. Leah's seeds are growing under the soil for now (left).
