

The Jungle Puppet Show

Bingle Bob the rattlesnake is Bryce, Millie the Butterfly, Frankie is Tiger, Thomas the Parrot is Georgie, and I am Buff the Red Panda. We made the puppets. Bryce is like the main character, the important person, because he says everything.

In the real world Parrot would eat Butterfly and Rattlesnake would eat Parrot and the Red Panda would eat Rattlesnake. Tiger would eat Panda. We are doing a show today for our mommies, dad, grandmas, and grandpas.

by Inti

This week, because the older kids are in NYC, we are doing dance classes for anyone who is interested. For the younger kids, we are doing a routine called Pirate Password. All of them are pirates, telling the audience the password, should they ever need it. Everyone has a special part.

Georgie gets to say, Go when we go on stage. Inti says Go when we go offstage. I get lifted. Aurora gets to say the part at the beginning. Ama gets to say a few lines. And at the beginning we all say Yohoho!!!” says Millie.

For the middle kids, we are doing Heigh-Ho, and everyone is being a dwarf. It is a lot of call and response. Mira gets the special part in this one - she is Doc.

Make sure to practice your dance over the weekend!!

-Millie & Amelia

Off to New York City!

Inti's Lego project at the library.

Projects

Bryce learning to saw by hand.

Charlotte is building a model based on Minoru Yamasaki and Graham's is based on Louis Sullivan.

Buffalo architects were researched, a guidebook made, and models created all to prepare for our field trip on Tuesday, May 23.

THE GHOSTS OF MANDALA

By AURORA

👻 This is TRUE. There is a ghost at school. At the end of math, My teacher froze. Then she said, 'I hear a noise, it sounds like a crackling static sound in one ear and people are talking. The other ear was ringing. And 45 minutes later it was gone! Everyone who was in the primary room heard it. I heard a rustling noise later. Doors creak and squeak, too. THERE ARE GHOSTS AT MANDALA.....

Once there was someone whose cubby was overflowing and people couldn't step on the ground without getting hit by school supplies. They started civilizations; people betrayed one another.

Now I'm gonna tell you what happened. Day one: They were slashed with scissors, marked with markers, and stabbed with pencils. Day two: Finn was known as the pencil ruiner with the amount of pencils he had; he was feared across the school because his lead was the sharpest in the world. Day three: I was eating on the library table when apparently, someone tipped a cubby on me. I was about to get 1000 paper cuts when all the school supplies stopped.

The cubby was empty. I jumped off the table, ran out of the school and got in my mom's car and we drove away. The end.

By Graham

Person of the Week

Mandala is Miss Alyssa's favorite school she works at. She loves how we have space to be creative, curious, independent thinkers while having fun.

She is still figuring out what to do when she grows up. But she wants to do something that helps people connect to nature and their roots. She is thinking about becoming a postpartum doula.

If she could live anywhere she would live somewhere that has seasons but is not as cold as Buffalo. In her spare time she likes to make tallow balm and other herbal products. She also likes to dance, be in nature, do yoga and be with loved ones.

If she could spend one day with someone famous she would spend it with Sacagawea. Miss Alyssa is good, kind, humble and fun to be around.

By: Elena & Clara

Thank you, Nora, for the delicious oatmeal-chocolate cookies!

New York, New York!

